

Mr Ting Yong Hong

Mr. Ting Yong Hong's practice has a strong focus in international trade, dry shipping (i.e. charter parties, bills of lading and letters of indemnity for delivery without bills of lading) and trade finance.

Mr. Ting is well-versed in "dry shipping" law. Some recent matters include acting successfully for shipowners and charterers in connection with various claims brought by banks for the delivery of cargo without the presentation of bills of lading due to Aavanti's financial difficulties as well as advising a major Singaporean tanker owner in connection with multi-million demurrage claims which had arisen due to the political upheaval in Yemen.

In addition, he has significant experience in "wet shipping" matters and maritime insolvencies.

From 2014 to mid-2015, Yong Hong was regional counsel for Asia Pacific and Middle East in a logistics MNC head quartered in the U.S.A.
