FUTURE-PROOFING YOUR VESSEL, LNG AS FUEL

With the continual expansion of Emission Control Area zones, we were able to witness many alternative fuels (particularly LNG as fuel) for the ocean-going vessels. These vessels were designed and delivered with the idea of “future-proofing” their assets, in order to comply with many regulatory emissions which are enforced and to be enforced.

In the past two years, we were able to witness the world’s first ship-to-ship LNG bunkering operations, as well as the delivery of purposely built LNG bunkering vessels. Currently with more than 200 vessels which are now gas-fueled or gas prepared, we foresee that this is one segment that will continue to grow strength to strength.

This presentation seeks to introduce these vessels which are already in compliance to the regulatory requirements present and in the near future. Register now!
