ASIAN OFFSHORE SUPPORT JOURNAL CONFERENCE – 26-27 SEPTEMBER 2018

Dear Sir/Ma'am,

One of the OSV sector's most respected commentators, James Frew, Director of Consultancy at MSI international will be speaking at our Asian Offshore Support Journal conference on September 26th this year.

Mr Frew's presentation - Which regional markets are positioned for growth and how to serve them - will address 4 key issues that both OSV owners and suppliers to the sector will want to hear.

- What OSV business models will we see emerge?
- What will the capital structure of a successful OSV owner look like?
- Is investing in next-gen propulsion systems a wise move?
- What variations in regional demand are forecast?

As MSI pointed out in OSJ earlier this year, there is no silver bullet for the sector's woes. If oversupply remains, any increase in oil prices isn't really going to significantly lift demand or charter rates.

Whether Mr. Frew's advice differs from the strategic thinking of three of the most respected CEOs in the market - Vivek Seth, Thomas Tan and James Pang – we have lined up as the panellists on our "View From The Top" session earlier in the day will be very revealing!
